Lionel Fusco grew up in New York. He knew how it worked since he was five. He became a cop, because it was the good thing to do. He was stationed at 51st precinct and ended up working with James Stills and Louis Azarello. Soon they pulled him further into corruption, until he was completely snared and working for HR. He found his redemption when he got the first and only drop on John Reese.					1 National Donut Day	2

Sameen Shaw lost her parents when she was younger, and ended up in foster care for most of her teenager life. She had gone to medical school, but was told she didn't have the right 'bedside manner' – so she joined the US Marines. She was recruited out of the Marines into NSA, from there she ended up working what she would discover 'relevant numbers'. When they decided to retire her, she was recruited by John Reese.
